

Assistant Professors in TESOL and Applied Linguistics with Expertise in Teaching Speaking/Pronunciation and Language Assessment/Testing

The Faculty of Education at Western University invites applications for two full-time faculty positions at the rank of Assistant Professor (probationary) in the area of TESOL and Applied Linguistics with specializations in Teaching Speaking/Pronunciation and Language Assessment/Testing. Rank and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. The preferred starting date for these positions is September 1, 2019, but is negotiable.

Applicants must have:

- A PhD in Applied Linguistics, TESOL or related field
- A record of excellence in research in Applied Linguistics and TESOL
- Track record of publications in Tier 1 international journals
- Experience in teaching students from diverse cultural backgrounds

The successful candidates will become members of the Curriculum Studies and Studies in Applied Linguistics Academic Research Cluster, bring relevant academic strength and collaborative abilities to the Faculty, and contribute to the development, implementation and maintenance of the TESOL and Applied Linguistics programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels. Teaching duties will primarily include the development and delivery of TESOL and Applied Linguistics courses within the MPED TESOL graduate program, as well as graduate student supervision. However, teaching duties may also fall within research intensive programs, and our Bachelor of Education program. The successful applicants will be expected to maintain an active research program and have success in attracting funding.
