

International Women and Children's Health Conference - Ambassador Application

The International Women and Children's Health Conference is held annually at McMaster University and focuses on improving the health of women and children in disadvantaged places throughout the world through leadership development, research and clinical outreach. Women and children are groups that have been traditionally neglected in terms of health issues, and this conference aims to change that.

The theme of this year's conference is Ideas to Action: Advocating for Women and Children's Health. The conference will take place on Saturday November 23, 2019, and contain a full day of discussions, workshops and research surrounding Women and Children's Health in a global context.

We are looking for dedicated and passionate individuals to act as Ambassadors for the conference at their school. The role will entail promoting the conference at your school and providing input about the conference throughout the planning process. Additionally, we would love if you would be able to attend the conference and help out the day of.
